THE LIST (5 stories)

■ Apple's Secretly Revamping That Weird Store Section

The Angle: There's a random, oddly-named corner of Apple Stores most shoppers walk right past — and now it's reportedly getting overhauled to launch a whole new device category. Anytime Apple's cooking up something new, the internet turns it into a guessing game.

- Inside Apple retail stores there's reportedly a lesser-known display area nicknamed the 'Avenues'
- That section is said to be getting revamped to introduce shoppers to a brand-new type of device
- The reported overhaul is tied to Apple's rumored push into a new line of home products

The Guessing Game

- If Apple's building a whole new store section for it, what do you think this mystery home gadget actually is?

ON-AIR BIT BREAKDOWN

- Step 1: Set the Mystery - 30 seconds -> Host explains Apple is quietly redoing a section of its stores just for one new, unnamed product.
- Step 2: Callers Guess the Gadget - 2-3 minutes, phone lines/social -> Ask listeners to call or comment with their wildest guess for what Apple's new home device could be.
- Step 3: Hosts Make Their Own Bets - 1 minute -> Each host locks in a guess on-air to revisit once real details leak.

■ Are Trump's tariffs quietly picking your pocket for big business?

The Angle: Tariffs were sold as punishment for foreign 'cheaters,' but the money has to come from somewhere — and critics say it's flowing straight from everyday shoppers into the pockets of corporations that know how to work the lobbying game.

- Tariffs are pitched as making foreign countries pay — but the bill often lands on American consumers at checkout.
- The system rewards companies that are adept at playing it, not necessarily the ones that need the help.
- Lobbying and political donations reportedly play a heavy role in who wins exemptions and who doesn't.
- The net effect, per the analysis: wealth moves up the food chain, from poor and middle-class Americans to big corporations.

The Debate Starter

- Ever notice a price jump and wonder who actually pockets the difference — is it 'protecting American jobs,' or just a hidden tax that ends up in the biggest companies' pockets?

■ Canada could feed the world — so why isn't it?

The Angle: Canada's got the farmland and the crops to be a global food superpower, but red tape and broken infrastructure are letting other countries eat our lunch on exports — literally.

- Experts say red tape is one of the biggest things holding back Canada's food exports

- Infrastructure bottlenecks — think ports, rail, storage — are choking how much food actually gets out the door
- A labour shortage is squeezing the ag sector at the same time
- Meanwhile, competing countries are scaling up their own exports and eating into Canada's share

The Debate Starter

- We grow enough to feed way more than ourselves — so is this a government failure, or just bad luck?

■ Newsom's parole program is springing 'sickos' at 50

The Angle: This is a hot-button crime-and-politics story that'll spark real debate — a state parole rule letting older inmates out early is the kind of policy fight that plays everywhere, not just California, especially with a loaded word like 'sickos' driving the outrage.

- California's Elderly Parole Program lets qualifying inmates seek release once they turn 50
- Inmates must have served at least 20 continuous years behind bars to be eligible
- Critics tie the program directly to Gov. Gavin Newsom, calling it a 'soft parole law'

The Debate Starter

- Should age and time served be enough to spring inmates early, or does that let the worst offenders off easy?

■ Survivor Says Newsom's Parole System Could Free Her Mentor's Killer

The Angle: A first-person survivor account colliding with Gavin Newsom's parole record is a combustible mix of true crime and politics - it turns a policy debate into a personal, emotional gut-punch that listeners will react to.

- Writer says a killer took the life of her best friend and mentor
- She was riding in the rescue vehicle the day it happened and says she barely survived
- She's speaking out publicly because her colleagues can't
- She's calling out Gov. Gavin Newsom's parole system, warning it could set the killer free

The Debate Starter

■ 13-year-old hauls in a 711-pound tuna and sets a record

The Angle: A kid out-fishing grown adults at a decades-old tournament is an instant feel-good story, and the sheer size of that fish makes it a fun visual for listeners to picture.

- Délynn Jacquard, just 13 years old, reeled in a 711-pound tuna
- The catch set a new record at the 22nd annual Wedgeport Tuna Tournament and Festival in Nova Scotia
- Her reaction afterward: "I didn't think I could do it."

■ Freak lightning storm just lit up B.C. and grounded flights

The Angle: This isn't your typical Vancouver drizzle - a rare, violent thunderstorm dumped thousands of lightning strikes on the region overnight and threw Vancouver's airport into chaos, which is wild for a city that barely sees thunder a few times a year.

- Environment Canada logged more than 1,800 lightning strikes over the Lower Mainland Saturday night into Sunday morning
- The B.C. Wildfire Service counted over 7,000 strikes province-wide
- The storm caused disruptions at Vancouver International Airport

The Debate Starter

- Were you stuck at YVR or did you actually see the lightning show - because B.C. thunderstorms are basically a once-a-summer event.

■ Japan's Yamashita wins CPKC Women's Open wire to wire in Edmonton

The Angle: A dominant start-to-finish win on Canadian soil is the kind of feel-good sports moment that's easy for hosts to riff on, especially with a rising international star notching her second title of the year.

- Miyu Yamashita, 25, of Japan won the CPKC Women's Open
- She led wire to wire for a dominating performance
- The win happened at Royal Mayfair Club in Edmonton
- It's her fourth LPGA Tour victory and second win this year

The Quick Take

■■ Get ready — a 'Godzilla' El Niño is about to shake up our weather

The Angle: Scientists say this year's fires and heat waves weren't El Niño's doing — but a supercharged version of the pattern is now kicking in, and it's set to scramble winter weather across Canada just as the planet's already running hot.

- Experts are calling it a 'super' or 'Godzilla' El Niño — a major Pacific Ocean warming event.
- It did NOT cause this year's fires and heat waves, despite assumptions.
- It's arriving at a time when many parts of the planet are already overheated.
- Forecasters are warning of a 'wild ride' for weather patterns ahead.

The Debate Starter

■ This Quebec town is teaching everyone how to talk to dementia patients

The Angle: Dementia touches almost every family, and this is a real, practical fix - not a lab study, an actual town retraining its shop owners, cops and city staff to handle it with patience instead of panic.

- The initiative is happening in a Quebec town, training local merchants, municipal employees and emergency responders
- Goal is to make the community more "dementia-friendly" for everyday life - shopping, city services, emergency calls
- Training focuses on helping staff recognize dementia symptoms and adapt how they interact with and serve residents living with it

The Real-Talk Moment

- Ask listeners: has anyone in your family had a stranger - a cashier, a bus driver - handle a dementia moment with real patience, and did it change how you saw your own town?

■ Brazilian playwright's first-ever film just won Best Picture at Gramado

The Angle: It's a full-circle underdog story - a celebrated stage actress and playwright steps behind the camera for the first time and walks away with the top prize at one of Latin America's biggest film festivals.

- Grace Passô's directorial debut "Our Secret" ("Nosso segredo") won the top prize - the Kikito for Best Feature Film
- The win came at the closing ceremony of the 54th Gramado Film Festival on Aug. 22
- The film also swept Best Cinematography (Wilssa Esser) and Best Art Direction (Lucas Osório)
- Passô is already an established playwright and actress - this is her first feature as director

The Career-Pivot Angle

■ Kingston shows up big for The Hip's last show

The Angle: The Tragically Hip are as close to a national institution as Canadian rock gets, and their hometown turning out en masse for the final concert is exactly the kind of shared, feel-good cultural moment that gets listeners reminiscing on air.

- Crowds packed into Kingston, Ontario — The Tragically Hip's hometown — to watch the band's final concert.
- CBC describes the scene as a "celebratory crowd," more send-off party than somber farewell.

The Nostalgia Trigger

- Ask listeners: what's your go-to Tragically Hip song, and where were you the last time you heard it live?

■ Mark Ruffalo vs. Paramount: 'Antisemitic' Label Sparks Feud

The Angle: A Hollywood A-lister just got called antisemitic by his own studio's parent company — and he's not backing down. It's the kind of celebrity-vs-corporation blowup that writes its own headlines.

- Mark Ruffalo publicly accused David and Larry Ellison of "powering some of the most destructive and inhuman forces" in a recent statement.
- Paramount responded by branding Ruffalo's comments "antisemitic."
- Ruffalo has now fired back at Paramount, escalating the public spat.

The Debate Starter

- When does calling out a company's leadership cross the line into something else — and who do you side with here, Ruffalo or Paramount?

■ Foo Fighters Crash the Symphony for Dudamel's Last Bow

The Angle: One of the biggest rock bands on Earth teamed up with a world-famous conductor for his farewell show — that's a genuinely wild pairing, and it's a great excuse to talk about when genres collide live.

- Foo Fighters shared the stage with the LA Phil at the Hollywood Bowl
- It marked famed conductor Gustavo Dudamel's final weekend leading the LA Philharmonic
- The LA Phil has backed pop and rock acts before, but this one reportedly hit different
- Variety called it a full-blown "blow up" of a show, not just a polite orchestral sit-in

The Debate Starter

- Rock band plus full orchestra — genius mashup or gimmick? Get the hosts arguing genre-crossover shows that actually worked versus ones that didn't.

■ Mark Ruffalo Called Out by Jewish Groups Over 'Antisemitic Tropes'

The Angle: A movie star with a huge activist following just got a public rebuke from two major Jewish advocacy groups — that's the kind of Hollywood-meets-politics collision that always gets people talking, especially with a studio like Paramount getting dragged into it too.

- The Simon Wiesenthal Center and Creative Communities For Peace publicly called out actor Mark Ruffalo
- Jim Berk, CEO of the Simon Wiesenthal Center, said: "Words matter, and so does the willingness to draw a line when legitimate debate gives way to antisemitic tropes"
- The groups praised Paramount for "speaking clearly and refusing to allow prejudice to masquerade" as something else
- Ruffalo has not yet issued a public response

■ NYC's Real-Life 'Mole People' Caught Climbing Out of a Manhole

The Angle: A viral TikTok video is reviving the decades-old urban legend that people actually live under New York City streets, and this time there's footage - right by one of the busiest spots in Manhattan.

- Video shows three men in headlamps and overalls climbing out of a manhole
- Location: 32nd Street and Seventh Avenue, steps from Penn Station
- The clip was posted to TikTok and shows them emerging from what's described as the "steamy depths" below the street
- The visual instantly plays into NYC's long-running "mole people" legend about an underground world beneath the city

■ Anti-Aging Pressure Is Hitting Women Younger — And Some Are Done With It

The Angle: Anti-aging content has flooded social media, and new research says women are feeling the pressure to look eternally young earlier than ever — but there's a growing pushback worth putting on the table.

- Researcher Megan Lindloff from London, Ont. launched the study after noticing anti-aging content "taking over" social media.
- New findings suggest women are feeling pressure to stay "perpetually younger" starting at a younger age than in the past.
- Anti-aging products and procedures are described as "everywhere" — flooding both feeds and store shelves.
- The research also points to a counter-trend: some women are actively pushing back against the anti-aging pressure.

■ Liberty limp into the playoffs again — sixth year running

The Angle: New York's title defense has been rocky all year, but a Fire loss just punched their playoff ticket anyway - a good excuse to talk about whether a shaky team backing into October still counts as a contender.

- New York Liberty have clinched a playoff spot for the sixth straight season
- The berth came courtesy of a Chicago Fire loss, not a Liberty win
- Regular season has been described as shaky for the defending mindset around the team

The Debate Starter

- Does backing into the playoffs off someone else's loss count as 'clinching,' or is that just showing up?
