THE LIST (5 stories)

■■ Canadian detained again after judge ordered his release

The Angle: A Winnipeg man was freed by a federal judge who ruled his rights were violated in ICE custody—then locked back up five weeks later over a mail delay. It's a head-scratching case that raises serious questions about how U.S. immigration enforcement handles court orders.

- Clayton Herman, born in Winnipeg, was held in ICE custody for months before a federal judge in California ordered his immediate release
- Herman was re-detained just five weeks after the judge's ruling on his rights being violated
- Herman claims a mail delay is why he's back in custody despite the court order

The Justice Check

- How does someone get re-arrested by the same agency a federal judge just told to let them go—and over mail?

■ Canada braces for Haitian migration wave as Trump ends U.S. deportation protection

The Angle: Hundreds of thousands of Haitians facing U.S. deportation are now looking north to Canada—and refugee advocates in Montreal are already fielding inquiries. This is shaping up to be a major cross-border policy clash between the two countries.

- Trump administration ended deportation protections for hundreds of thousands of Haitian migrants in the U.S.
- Montreal refugee advocates report a growing number of Haitians considering relocating to Canada as a result
- The move signals potential pressure on Canada's immigration and border systems as displaced people seek alternative safe haven

The Border Question

- Should Canada open its doors to Haitian migrants being deported from the U.S.—or is that setting up a larger immigration crisis we're not ready for?

■■ Billionaire CEO pitches voting power tied to wealth

The Angle: Shopify's Tobi Lütke just publicly endorsed stripping votes from non-taxpayers and handing extra ballots to the ultra-rich—sparking a firestorm about who gets a say in democracy and why a major business leader is floating this in the first place.

- Tobi Lütke, CEO of Shopify, endorsed a proposal for weighted voting based on income tax paid
- The proposed system would give zero votes to non-taxpayers and up to five votes to anyone paying $500,000+ annually
- The endorsement came in response to a post on X and has drawn immediate backlash

The Backlash Moment

- Is this a billionaire brain-dead take on fairness, or does anyone actually think your voting power should scale with your tax bill?

■ FIFA's $20 billion World Cup power play ignites soccer civil war

The Angle: FIFA just announced a massive privatization scheme to hand over World Cup operations to a US company backed by Jared Kushner and other wealthy investors — and Europe's soccer governing body is already swinging back hard. This is shaping up to be a huge fight over who controls the planet's biggest sporting event.

- FIFA President Gianni Infantino announced a plan to create a $20 billion US company that would run World Cup operations with private investors
- The investment group includes members of the Kushner family, the real-estate and media-connected dynasty
- UEFA — Europe's soccer governing body — immediately attacked the plan after the Tuesday announcement
- The scheme would privatize what has traditionally been FIFA's direct control, marking a major shift in how the World Cup is operated

The Corruption Alarm

- Does handing the World Cup to billionaire investors — including a Trump-connected family — smell like exactly the kind of FIFA corruption we've heard about before, or is this just smart business?

■■ Fauci invokes Fifth Amendment in Senate grilling

The Angle: The nation's former top pandemic doctor just refused to answer questions under oath during a Congressional hearing, escalating the long-running feud with Republican lawmakers over COVID policy and government accountability.

- Dr. Anthony Fauci invoked the Fifth Amendment at the start of a Senate Homeland Security Committee hearing on Wednesday
- Senator Rand Paul (R-KY) was present; Fauci accused him of 'unhinged' remarks and a personal vendetta to prosecute him
- Fauci claimed the investigation's sole purpose was to put him 'behind bars' rather than pursue legitimate policy oversight

The Standoff

- When a government official takes the Fifth in public testimony, what's actually being protected—legitimate legal jeopardy or political optics?

TRENDING TODAY

■■ Tom Holland's New Spider-Man Movie Ditches the Multiverse Mess

The Angle: After years of multiverse chaos and team-ups, the latest Spider-Man film is getting buzz for stripping things back to basics—and critics are saying Holland's never been better in a sequel. This is the kind of blockbuster reset moment that actually matters to how the MCU moves forward.

- Tom Holland's fourth standalone Spider-Man movie is earning rave early reactions from film press ahead of its release

- Critics are calling it "a grounded Spider-Man tale" that is "thrilling and heartfelt" and moves away from multiverse storylines
- The film is described as "ditching multiverse tedium" and marks a new era for Holland's character in the Marvel Cinematic Universe

The Hot Take Opener

- Are you tired of the multiverse stuff in superhero movies, or is that the only reason you actually care about these films anymore?

■ Menopause vacations are now a luxury resort trend

The Angle: Women are spending serious money on specialized wellness retreats designed specifically around managing menopause symptoms—think cooling pools, hormone-informed fitness, and expert-led seminars. It's a reflection of how the wellness industry is finally treating midlife as something worth investing in rather than just suffering through.

- Carillon Wellness Resort in Miami Beach is offering dedicated menopause-focused vacation packages
- The retreats combine luxury amenities with menopause management—cooling features, specialized programming, and expert guidance built into the experience

The Wellness Pivot

- Is this a smart health investment or the ultimate luxury flex—and what would actually get YOU to book one?

ON-AIR BIT BREAKDOWN

- Step 1: The Pitch Round - First 90 seconds -> Hosts each pitch what they'd want at their version of a 'wellness escape resort'—what amenities, what mood, what problem it's supposed to solve. Make it funny but real.
- Step 2: The Price Check - Next segment -> Open phones/social: 'How much would you actually drop on a specialized wellness vacation?' and watch where the callers draw the line—$2K? $5K? Never?

Backup options:

■ What menopause does to your brain—and why nobody talks about it

The Angle: Menopause affects way more than hot flashes: new attention on how hormonal shifts impact memory, focus, and long-term brain health. It's a massive blind spot in how we talk about women's health.

The Knowledge Gap

- How many of you—or people you know—didn't realize menopause could mess with your thinking, not just your body?

■ Red flag decoder: What women say they're actually selling

The Angle: A viral take on dating advice is sparking real talk about relationship expectations and what people's behavior actually signals. It's the kind of unfiltered hot-take that gets people weighing in hard on social media.

- Post went viral from @WomenBeingAwful account on X/Twitter

- Core message: "Look at what she is selling before you buy it" — framed as advice for spotting incompatibility early
- Plays into broader dating discourse around red flags, authenticity, and relationship dealbreakers

The Hot Take Test

- What's the biggest thing people misrepresent about themselves early in dating—and how do you actually spot it?

ON-AIR BIT BREAKDOWN

- Step 1: The Red Flag Speed Round - Quick fire (2 min) -> Hosts each name one thing they wish they'd caught earlier in dating, then open phones for callers to share their biggest 'should've seen it coming' moment
- Step 2: The Authenticity Test - Debate (3 min) -> Hosts debate whether early-dating 'performance' is always a red flag or if everyone sells a version of themselves — is that human, or is it deceptive?
- Step 3: The Caller Verdict - Call-in (5 min) -> Take calls from listeners who caught early warning signs and either acted on them or ignored them — what happened next?

CLOSER: THE KICKER/GOODBYES

■ Pakistani doc captures mass spiritual trance in mesmerizing debut

The Angle: A brand-new experimental film is turning heads at a major film festival by diving deep into collective ecstasy and Sufi spiritual practice in a Pakistani city—it's the kind of hypnotic, intimate cinema that gets film critics talking and reminds us there are entire worlds of human experience most of us never see.

- Umair Bilal's debut feature 'As Light as Air' is premiering in the Locarno Critics' Week lineup
- The film explores spiritual life in Sehwan, Pakistan, a Sufi city where participants surrender to shared states of trance
- The doc is being described as hypnotic and experimental, capturing collective ecstasy and communal spiritual practice

The Curiosity Hook

- Have you ever experienced a moment where you felt completely in sync with a group of people around you—spiritual, musical, or otherwise?

■ Netflix drops new Idaho murders doc with fresh details

The Angle: The 2022 college murders that captivated the nation are back in the spotlight as Netflix releases a new docuseries reopening the case. It's the kind of true crime moment people will be talking about all week.

- Four University of Idaho students were killed in 2022 in a case that made national headlines
- Netflix has released a new docuseries examining the murders with additional details and investigation
- The case involved Bryan Kohberger, who was arrested and convicted in connection with the killings

The Water Cooler Question

- Are you diving into true crime docs like this, or does the real case coverage feel different now that it's streaming entertainment?

■■ Fauci back on Capitol Hill facing his biggest critic

The Angle: Dr. Anthony Fauci is testifying before a Senate panel led by a Republican lawmaker who's openly called for his criminal prosecution over his COVID-19 response. It's the latest chapter in a partisan clash that's defined his final years in office.

- Fauci has testified before Congress more than 20 times since COVID-19 emerged
- Wednesday's hearing is led by his chief Republican antagonist who wants to see him criminally prosecuted
- This marks another high-stakes appearance in an increasingly contentious political battle over his pandemic decisions

The Accountability Question

- Should Fauci be answering for pandemic policy decisions in court, or is this pure political theater?

■ Fauci faces Senate heat over COVID diary release

The Angle: Dr. Anthony Fauci is heading into a high-stakes Senate showdown after the release of his pandemic communications, with Republicans—led by Rand Paul—already circling with accusations that he destroyed public trust in health institutions. This is the kind of Washington accountability moment that's either overdue or overblown depending on who you ask.

- Rand Paul and Senate GOP are preparing to confront Fauci over the released COVID 'diary' materials
- Paul is accusing Fauci and his team of having 'destroyed public trust in the CDC and our public health institutions'
- The confrontation comes as Fauci's private pandemic communications are now public record

The Hot Take

■ BMW cutting 8,000 jobs by 2027—what's driving the layoffs?

The Angle: One of the world's biggest automakers is slashing its workforce as the industry pivots hard toward electric vehicles and faces intense competition. This signals how the auto sector's transformation is forcing major restructuring right now.

- BMW planning to cut 8,000 jobs by the end of 2027
- The company employs roughly 154,000 people worldwide
- Layoff offer targeted at German employees in desk-based roles

The Big Picture Question

BREAKOUT WATCH (below the show's usual engagement bar - included on editorial judgment, not metrics; producer's call)

■ Trump fires back after Iran's surprise missile strike

■ Breakout potential (editorial judgment, below the usual engagement bar): Direct Trump quote with profanity about Iran escalation has built-in political polarization engine and will likely trigger major retweets from both sides once it breaks through initial lag.

The Angle: Iran launched a direct missile attack on Israel, and Trump is already weighing in with aggressive rhetoric—escalating an already volatile Middle East situation that could reshape the region and US foreign policy in real time.

- Iran launched a surprise missile attack
- Trump responded with combative language, vowing the US will 'beat the f-ing s-' out of Iran

- The attack marks a major escalation in the Israel-Iran conflict

The Rhetoric Check

- Does Trump's tough talk actually deter Iran, or does it risk spiraling into something bigger—and what's the real strategy here versus the showmanship?

■ Breakout potential (editorial judgment, below the usual engagement bar): US banning foreign humanoid robots taps into the exact AI anxiety + China trade war moment that's been building for months—this is policy meeting zeitgeist, just underexposed source.
The Angle: The U.S. just blocked imports of humanoid robots made abroad, explicitly targeting China over surveillance and military concerns. It's the latest move in tech cold war politics that could reshape robotics manufacturing and innovation across North America.

- The U.S. has implemented a ban on foreign-made humanoid robots, with China identified as the primary target
- The restriction cites national security concerns, including surveillance capability and military applications
- The move reflects escalating tech trade restrictions between the U.S. and China
