THE LIST (5 stories)

■ Delivery Driver Throws Down at Barstool HQ — On Camera

The Angle: A wild, caught-on-camera brawl outside Barstool Sports' NYC office is ripping around social media, and Dave Portnoy's sarcastic dig at Mayor-elect Mamdani over it is adding fuel to the fire — pure watercooler material with a political edge.

- An Uber Eats delivery driver got into a physical fight with a Barstool Sports employee right outside the company's NYC headquarters.
- The brawl was caught on camera and is now spreading fast online.
- Dave Portnoy posted about it on X, sarcastically writing "Shoutout Mandami's NYC" — a jab tying the chaos to incoming mayor Zohran Mamdani.

The Debate Starter

- Play the clip on air — is Portnoy just being Portnoy, or does he have a point about NYC street chaos right now?

■ Trump tried to kill clean energy — it's thriving anyway

The Angle: This is a classic 'follow the money vs. follow the politics' story — despite policy pushback from the Trump administration, clean energy investment and growth are reportedly outpacing the resistance, which makes for a great economics-vs-politics debate on air.

The Debate Starter

- Can politics actually stop an industry once the money's already moving?

■ Reality Star Sheds Nearly 600 Pounds—Wait Till You See Her Now

The Angle: It's the kind of jaw-dropping before-and-after that stops your scroll—a reality TV personality's journey from struggle to total transformation, and audiences can't get enough of a good redemption story.

- Casey King, star of My 3000lb Family, has lost nearly 600 pounds.
- The transformation was driven by bariatric surgery.
- She followed it up with a skin removal procedure to complete the change.

The Inspiration Hook

- Would you go under the knife for a transformation like this—or is the slow, hard road the only way you'd trust it?

■ YouTube Premium's About To Hit Your Wallet Again

The Angle: Another price hike on a service millions of us already pay for hits different - streaming subscriptions are quietly stacking up, and this is the kind of quiet cost-creep story every listener has a hot take on.

- YouTube Premium is reportedly rolling out a new price increase for subscribers.
- This isn't the first hike - it's part of a pattern of creeping price bumps across the ad-free/background-play tier.
- The increase is said to be hitting users globally, not just in one market.

■ Uber Fined Nearly $1 Billion for Letting Robots Fire Drivers

The Angle: This is the AI-accountability story everyone's been waiting for - a massive fine because an algorithm, not a person, was cutting drivers off with zero human sign-off. It's a flashpoint for the bigger fight over AI making life-altering decisions with no one minding the store.

- Uber was slapped with a fine of nearly $1 billion
- The penalty ties back to drivers getting suspended by algorithms rather than a human decision-maker
- Reports indicate there was no human review built into the process before drivers lost access

The Debate Starter

■ Tim Cook's Out — Apple Hands the Keys to a New Guy

The Angle: The guy who ran Apple after Steve Jobs for a decade and a half is stepping down, and the changeover lands right before Apple drops its biggest hardware swing in years — a foldable iPhone.

- Tim Cook took over as Apple CEO exactly 15 years ago today, succeeding Steve Jobs
- Cook officially steps down September 1, 2026
- Incoming CEO: John Ternus, Apple's current hardware engineering chief
- The handoff comes right as Apple preps to unveil the iPhone 18 Pro and its first-ever foldable iPhone

The Debate Starter

■■ Doug Ford says Canada should be ready to pull the plug on the US

The Angle: Ontario's premier is floating cutting off electricity and critical minerals to the US, a serious escalation in the ongoing trade tension between the two countries - this is the kind of talk that could hit wallets on both sides of the border.

- Doug Ford, Ontario's premier, told the Associated Press Canada should be prepared to cut electricity exports to the US
- He also floated cutting off critical minerals shipments south of the border
- Ontario supplies power to parts of the northern US, so a cutoff would have real cross-border impact

⋋■ Haaland Shaves His Head — Fans Say 'Viking Era Over'

The Angle: It's a goofy, low-stakes celebrity moment with real crossover appeal — soccer fans AND casual pop-culture listeners will have opinions on a superstar suddenly ditching his signature look.

- Erling Haaland, Manchester City's star striker, showed up Sunday with a fresh buzz cut — his long blond hair completely gone.
- Fans flooded social media reacting to the new look, with one fan summing it up: 'The Viking era is over.'
- Reaction is split — some fans mourning the signature 'Viking' look, others hyped on the new style.

The Debate Starter

- Hot or not — does the buzz cut kill Haaland's whole 'Viking striker' vibe, or is it an upgrade?

ON-AIR BIT BREAKDOWN

- Step 1: The Reveal - Set up the visual -> Pull up before/after photos of Haaland's long hair vs. the new buzz cut for listeners following on social.
- Step 2: Hot or Not Vote - 60-second gut check -> Each host gives an instant thumbs up or down, then throw it to callers/social for a quick fan vote.

■ Canada wants YOU (well, a singer) for Eurovision

The Angle: Ever yelled at your TV during Eurovision wishing Canada had a horse in the race? Turns out we might soon get our own version of the entry pipeline, and CBC just dropped the details on how to throw your hat in.

- Submissions to compete as Canada's rep open Aug. 31
- CBC is laying out the full how-to for anyone who wants to enter

The Callout Game

- Phone lines open: who do you nominate to sing for Canada, and don't say your cousin from the wedding again.

ON-AIR BIT BREAKDOWN

- Step 1: Pitch Your Pick - 60 seconds each -> Each host names one Canadian artist (real or ridiculous) they'd submit to represent the country.
- Step 2: Callers Weigh In - Open the phone lines -> Ask listeners to call or text their nominee, funniest or most legit answer wins bragging rights.
- Step 3: The Reveal Tease - Wrap-up -> Remind listeners submissions actually open Aug. 31 and to check CBC for the real entry process.

■■ Should Rosie O'Donnell Get Her Own Late Night Show?

The Angle: A think piece is making the rounds arguing Rosie O'Donnell deserves a late-night desk of her own - and that it would break a glass ceiling no woman has cracked in the genre's history. It's a juicy hypothetical for pop culture chat: who'd actually watch, and why hasn't it happened yet?

- The pitch: give Rosie O'Donnell her own late-night show.
- The argument frames it as breaking "comedy's greatest glass ceiling" - no woman has ever solo-hosted a major network late-night show.
- It's circulating as a discussion piece on Reddit's r/entertainment.

■ WaPo Just Got Ordered to Rehire the Columnist They Fired

The Angle: A newsroom fired an opinion columnist over her posts about Charlie Kirk — now an arbitrator says that firing was wrong and she's getting her job AND her back pay. It's a live wire on how far outlets can go policing what writers say online.

- Karen Attiah, a Washington Post opinion columnist, was fired over posts she made about Charlie Kirk
- An arbitrator ruled the firing was improper and ordered the Post to reinstate her
- She's also owed back pay for the time she was out
- The case reopens the debate over how much control newsrooms have over columnists' personal commentary

FLEX (cap check: THE GREAT DEBATE 1/4 this month; TECH TALK 3/3 this month; Advice/Relationship Cluster 3/3 this month)

(no flex-slot candidates cleared the cap/score bar today)

BREAKOUT WATCH (below the show's usual engagement bar - included on editorial judgment, not metrics; producer's call)

■■ Ukraine's amputee vets are marking independence day the hard way

■ Breakout potential (editorial judgment, below the usual engagement bar): Same story is cross-posted on both Reddit and CTV (see #37), and it's landing on the actual date of Ukraine's Independence Day, giving it a real-time news hook that dual-platform momentum usually precedes a breakout.
The Angle: A group of Ukrainian veterans who lost limbs in the war are pushing their bodies to the limit in an endurance challenge to celebrate independence day — a gut-punch, feel-good story about resilience that cuts through the usual war headlines.

- Ukrainian veterans who lost limbs in the war organized a grueling endurance challenge to mark the country's independence day
- The event doubles as both a personal test of grit and a public statement of national resilience

The Human Interest Hook

- What's the most inspiring 'against-the-odds' comeback story you've ever seen in person?

■■ Your ED pill might be coming for your eyesight

■ Breakout potential (editorial judgment, below the usual engagement bar): A fear-based health scare tied to a wildly popular drug class (ED medication) has built-in mass relevance and 'irreversible vision loss' is exactly the kind of alarming hook that drives shares among an enormous existing user base.
The Angle: A wildly popular erectile dysfunction drug is being tied to an eye disease that can cause permanent vision loss — the kind of headline that sounds fake but is exactly the r/nottheonion energy that gets a room talking.

- The story centers on a popular erectile dysfunction drug — not a fringe supplement, a mainstream medication.
- It's been linked to an eye disease that can cause irreversible vision loss.
- Surfaced via r/nottheonion, meaning the internet's already reacting like this is too wild to be real.

The Reaction Bit

- Would you risk your eyesight for your love life — be honest.

■ AI Deepfakes Are Now Targeting Teachers

■ Breakout potential (editorial judgment, below the usual engagement bar): Sympathetic victims (teachers) plus the escalating AI-deepfake-harm narrative hits a nerve that's actively trending in tech and education discourse right now.
The Angle: A growing wave of AI-generated deepfakes is hitting educators across the country, turning classroom trust into a new kind of digital nightmare and raising urgent questions about how schools police student tech use.

The Debate Starter

- Should a student caught making deepfakes of a teacher face expulsion, or even criminal charges?

Reddit r/technology (Tier 1) | Score: 78/90 (45 fit + 12 source + 21 quality) -> LEAD

■ Nvidia Chips Are Turning Up Inside Russian Attack Drones

■ Breakout potential (editorial judgment, below the usual engagement bar): Nvidia's brand name attached to a shocking sanctions-evasion angle (its chips powering Russian war drones) combines a recognizable name with a jaw-dropping geopolitical twist.

The Angle: American tech giant Nvidia's consumer-grade minicomputers are somehow ending up in Moscow's AI-guided drones, raising huge questions about sanctions loopholes and whether US companies can actually control where their hardware goes once it leaves the store.

- Report says Nvidia minicomputers are being used to power AI-guided drones built for Russia's war effort.
- Raises fresh questions about how Western tech is slipping past sanctions meant to cut Moscow off from advanced chips.
- Puts Nvidia in an awkward spotlight amid its already-massive scrutiny over AI hardware and global chip policy.

The Debate Starter

- Should tech companies be on the hook when their hardware ends up in a war zone, or is this just an impossible problem to police?
